SECTION

RIM

REMEMBER- TWO OR MORE SLICES HAVE TO FAIL A SECTION TO COUNT AS A REMAKE

A SECTION TO C

- Is it the correct crust?
 Check Rim Height is 3/4" (between 1/2" 1")
 - o With the Orange part flat on the box, slide the tool over each slice of the crust, if it slides under the minimum or the maximum gets stopped by the crust this would be a remake.
- Check Rim Width is 3/4" (between 1/2" 1")
 - o With the pizza grading tool Orange side down, slide the crust of each slice to the Red line, if the whole of the crust does not fit in the Red shaded Area between Pizza Diameter and Rim Height, this would be a remake.

SIZE

- Part 1: Is the pizza > 3/4" smaller or bigger than the inside of the box?
 - o Make the pizza touch two sides of the box. Place the tool with the Green line touching the inside of the bottom of the box. The big square should straddle the outside of the box. Slide back and forth between pizza and box, if it passes without touching the pizza, the pizza is too small.
- Part 2: (Done after assessing Portion & Placement) Flip every other slice over. Use a box cutter to cut away from your body starting at the crust to the tip of the slice. Fold cut piece up to view the cross section of the pizza slice. Use tool to measure center rise.
 - o Holding the tool flat above the pizza, measure the width of the cross section of the pizza slice starting at the Blue line at one edge, the other edge of the slice should fall in the Blue shaded area. If either side of the cross-section of the slice is smaller than the shaded area at any point from crust to tip, this would be a remake.

PORTION

- Is it the correct toppings?
- Does it have the proper portion of sauce, cheese, toppings & gartic oil?

PLACEMENT

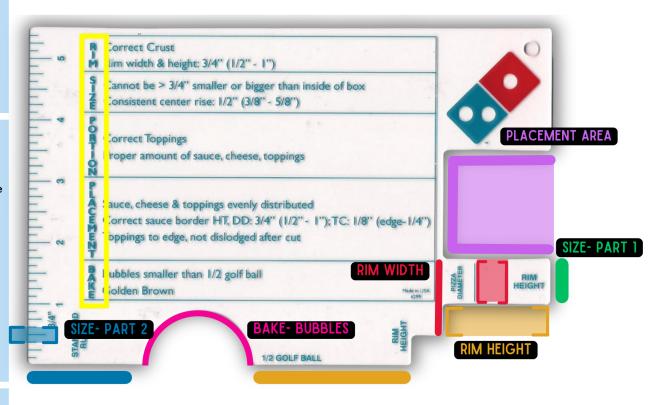

- Are toppings out to the edge and not dislodged after cut?
 - Use the Purple Area up and down each slice, if there are sections that don't have all toppings in it, that would be a remake.
- Are Sauce, cheese, and toppings evenly distributed?
- Does it have the correct sauce border?

BAKE

- . Look for bubbles
 - Put the Orange part of the tool flat on the pizza, if the bubble touches the Pink cut out circle, it is a remake.
- Golden Brown Bake, if it is too light or dark, this would be a remake.
